

From the diaries of my Great Grandfather "Bill" (William James Powell) I* have found that John McClelland is the name of the evacuee who stayed at the house of my grandparents Walter Harold Powell and Gwynedd Constance Powell (nee Peirson Jones).* Alun Edwards

This was at The Croft, Ithon Road Llandrindod Wells, Radnorshire, Wales. My mother (Liz Edwards) would have met him when she was younger because after the Second World War he visited The Croft but Mum only knew him as Johnny from Bootle.

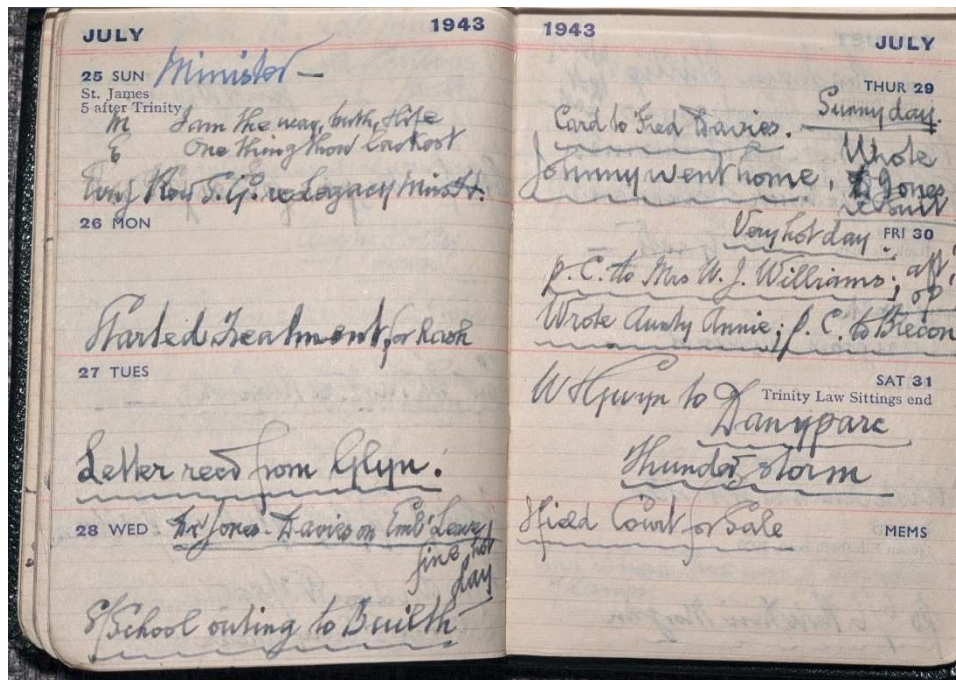

It looks like Johnny came to live with my grandparents on Friday 20th December 1942, from 6 Hankey Drive, Bootle. Maybe his school or church was "St Monica's off no 12".

Johnny visited home a few times, and visited places with Walter and Gwynedd and Bill, eg Maesygarn, Llanigon the farm Gwyn's mother Lucy Gwen ran up in the hills.

Johnny may have left Llandrindod finally on Thursday 29th July 1943. There may be other mentions of Johnny in these diaries which are kept in detail from 1910 to WJ Powell's death in 1948.
